A class full of artists...

Today we created our own 'dot' painting based on a story by Peter H. Reynolds. In the story Vashti thinks she can't draw, however her teacher is sure that she can and encourages a creative spirit in Vashti. Vashti's drawing started as an angry dot but when Vashti looked at it differently she soon discovered that when there's a dot there's a way. We are so proud of our designs and paintings and enjoyed a walking gallery, sharing our thoughts and work with our friends.
